

Brooklyn Handicap--Review of High School Series

Twenty-Game Series Has Seen Its Last Days Here

Clubs Are Given Real Test, but Players Lose Interest Toward Close of Season.

ABILITY OF STAR NINE

By JACK EASTER.

The twenty-game series played by the local high school league this season seems to have been a failure, although it gave all the teams and players a real test and demonstrated that Coach Kimble's Eastern High School club was easily the best of the field of five.

This series was completed on last Tuesday, when Eastern trimmed Western by 1 to 0. It was completed four days after school had closed, and at least three weeks later than the athletic advisors of the different schools had expected.

Judging from the lack of interest shown by the students of the various schools and the poor accommodation afforded for the students and general public in witnessing the games, it appears as if the twenty-game series has seen its last days.

Although the competition between the teams was keen and close, the series was so long-drawn-out that even the players of the different clubs lost interest toward the close of the season.

The one good advantage of the twenty-game series is that it brought out the sure winner, giving each team two cracks at one another, and afforded no chance for any of the clubs to come through with their little abilities of what they would do if given another chance.

Eastern High, which won the championship, deserves a great deal of credit for coming through with victory. Handicapped by a bad start, Coach Kimble worked hard and developed a well-balanced team, and the best all-around battery in Tomlin and Flaherty ever developed in the high schools. These two men practically kept Eastern on top single-handed.

At the beginning of the series most everybody picked Central, last year's champion, to repeat.

Central had a heavy-hitting team but a rather ragged fielding combination. They lost one of their best players in "Jack" McDonald, who flunked after the first game. Western was composed of a bunch of young inexperienced players, making their first appearance in high school ranks and were a little shy. Business was composed of the same class of players and both of these schools should make a fine showing next year. Many followers of the series who saw most games said that Tech had the best all-around team in the lack of team work, not getting the breaks, and too much individual playing lost the series for Tech.

In picking an all-high team I put every man in the position in which he played throughout the series and not once shifting a man to a new position because of his hitting ability. I think this is the only fair way of picking an all-high team, giving every man credit for the playing in his respective position and thereby getting the best team work and best results.

"Roas" White, of Central, proved to be the best all-around first baseman in the series, leading all the first basemen in hitting, and his fielding at times was sensational. "Buck" Wise, of Business, gave him a close rub for his job.

"Johnny" Elsmann, of Tech, stood out in the series at second base, doing more than any other man on the team to keep Tech in the race. He led his team at the bat, but he fell down badly this year in his fielding. Boetler, of Eastern, gets second choice because of his sensational fielding which cut off many a run.

For the shortstop position it was really a toss-up between "Skeets" Shewalter, of Tech, and "Goody" Gerardi, of Business. Shewalter was given the place because of his hard hitting during the series and his accurate fielding, although Gerardi was way above him in fielding.

"Toots" Wise, of Business, is given the place at third because his hundred points better than Strawn, of Tech, his nearest rival.

"Molly" Roberts, of Central, proved to be not only the best outfielder in the series, leading his team in scoring and leading all the other outfielders in the series in hitting and fielding.

"Hammy" Blake, of Eastern, is given the left fielder's job because of his fielding and hitting ability and his great ability to get on base.

"Tom" Peyton, of Western, is given the right field position because his timely hitting has practically kept his team in the race.

Cook, of Central, is kept off because of his ragged fielding at times, although he is given a place on the second team because of his hitting ability. "Dave" Pfeiffer, of Tech, played steady ball throughout the series and is given a place on the second team, so is Watt, of Western.

"Leo" Flaherty is given the catcher's job, and his teammate, "Ed" Tomlin, the pitcher's job.

The records of these two players alone should give them the job. They have done more for their team than any other two individuals in the series, having practically won the championship for Eastern.

"Denby" Hurd, of Tech, is given the second string pitcher's position. Although his team has played a ball behind him he has held his opponents to a fine average of hits per game. He twice beat Tony, of Eastern, the best pitcher in the series. "Sam" Gottlieb, of Central, and "Carl" Wassman, of Business, are given places on the second team, and

BIG HANDICAP TO FRIAR ROCK

August Belmont's Entry Lands Brooklyn Handicap from a Classy Field.

PENNANT RUNS SECOND

New York, June 24.—August Belmont's Friar Rock, carrying 108 pounds, won the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct today. He ran the mile and a furlong in 1:30 flat, cutting a second of a second off the track record. A length back came the mighty Whitney horse, Pennant, in his reappearance after a two-year lay-off. Then came Slumberer II, a Whitney cast-off. Roamer, the poulpaul choice, finishing outside the money, 5 to 2, 4 to 5, 2 to 1.

Friar Rock, which also has this year's Suburban to his credit, swung into the stretch back with the tailenders. A quarter from home he was on the outside rail racing like a demon. An eighth from home he was only inches behind the footed Pennant. A sixteenth from home he had his head in front. At the wire he was a length to the good.

Today's race stamps Friar Rock as the king of the 3-year-olds and champion of handicap division. Summary:
